His Wish.

A wicked story is told about two partners who respected each other's business ability, but who hated each cordially. To one of them came a fairy saying that he could have any boon he desired, and whatever he had his partner should have in double portion. Naturally his first wish was for a barrel of money. "All right," said the fairy, "but your partner will get two barrels on that wish."
"Stop a little," said the first. "Perhaps you'd better not give me a barrel of money. I'd rather you would make me totally blind in one eye."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

EXPERT IN EMBLEMS.

WISE IN THE MATTER OF FRATER NITY PINS AND BADGES.

A Bowery Man Who Makes These Things a Feature of His Pawnbroker's Sale Shop and Finds Them the Most Fascinating Incident of His Business.

On the Bowery not far from Broome street is a pawn-broker's sale shop, the proprietor of which makes a specialty of dealing in college fraternity pins and badges. You may examine every other pawnshop and sale store on the Bowery and find not more than five or six such emtlems in all of them, but in this shop, occupying a conspicuous position in the show window, there is always a velvet covered tray on which a dozen or more pins of different secret societies are displayed. The place is getting to be known among college men, and peo-ple who have lost fraternity badges go there as the first step to finding them.

Every few weeks the proprietor of the place goes on a tour of the pawnshops looking for badges, and in his long ex-perience he has picked up a fund of information about college fraternities that would put the average graduate to the blush. There is not much money in that particular branch, he says, but he has become interested in it and made it a sort of study. Not only does he know the emblems of every fraternity in this part of the country, but he is a perfect encyclopedia of information regarding their relative size, importance and the peculiar characteristics of each society and of the colleges in which each has its chapters. One would be certain that he himself is a college man but for certain peculiarities of speech that proclaim the east sider and his positive assertion that he has never been inside the doors of a college and has never even seen any but the local colleges from the outside.

A reporter in search of a lost hadge which he thought might have found its way, as many lost articles do, into a Bowery pawnshop went into this store to look over the stock of fraternity pins. He didn't find his badge, but he found many others. The proprietor had some interesting things to tell about some of his pins.

"There ain't many things in this line that's fun," said he. "A man wouldn't go into it for his health. But this secret ociety pin business is mighty interest in. Of course you understand it's only a side lay—not my regular trade. How did I get into it? Why, the funny let-ters on the pins used to catch me when I was on the lookout for stuff in the hockshops, and I began pickin 'em up. Then I got interested more by an old gent from the University club that was up on that line and used to tell me things about the badges and their different organizations. He came into my shop one day to look at a badge. That's how I got to know him. He used to send me books and magazine articles on fra-ternities till I got to know as much about it as he did, and now I guess they ain't many college societies in this part of the country that I don't know enough about to surprise the members if I wanted to tell it.

"They ain't a college fraternity in the east but what I've handled one or more of its pins. I'm keepin tab on the bockshops all the while, and whenever I find a badge I nail it. Usually I get 'em cheap, for they ain't any demand for 'em to speak of. Occasionally a man brings in a pin to me, or I see one on a bum's coat and buy it, but it's mostly the pawnshops. How do I s pose they get there? Well, most of 'cm are lost, I think. I know enough about 'em to know that the last thing a college man'll hock is his society pin. When they do hock 'em, though, it's down here, and not up town, where they think other college fellows may go in and see 'em. They get mighty little on 'em, for the hockshop men are dead leary of things they don't understand. Of course the pin itself has a good deal to do with If it's heavily jeweled, a man may get half its value on it. Then pins that are a marked design hock well, because they sell well. The T pin of the Delta and the star and crescent of the Alpha Delta, and the crosses like the Alpha Tau Omega or Delta Phi will find a market easier than the plain monogram pins or the diamond shaped.

"Now, here's a pin," continued this erudite student of fraternities, taking a small, plain Psi Upsilon pin from the case, "that I've had here for 18 months, and not an offer for it. I got it in a queer way. I was in a hockshop down by Canal street chewin the rag over a couple of badges that the proprietor had, when in came a young woman about 26 or 28 maybe and pretty, too. only she looked kind of half starved. She unpinned the pin from her dress and " 'How much will you loan me on this?

"Her voice trembled, but she was game and kept a steady face. The man offered her $1, and she turned to go out, when I said I'd give her $3 for it. 'I don't want to sell it,' she said. 'I want to get it back some time.

" 'Well, I'll keep it six months for you,' I told her and gave her my business card. She took the money, and she kissed the pin before she handed it to me. I never saw her again. There's nothin on the pin but her name."

The speaker handed the pin to the renorter, who looked on the back and saw engraved the one word "Lizzie." returned the pin to its place, and it is probably there now if any Psi U wants Bowery hunting for it.-New York Sun.

NOW TO MAKE OLD CLOTHES NEW. With the Help of the Tailor and a Little Ammonia

If a suit of clothes be of good material and be well made, it can be made to last with some care a very long time and do a great share of service. It is best when clothes are not in use to fold them carefully and put them away where dust will not get at them. Hanging clothes in a wardrobe is not nearly so satisfactory. At the end of the season, when a man lays aside an old suit. he sees the shining elbows and the bulging knees and the grease spots here and there and says to himself, "Well, this is the end of them!" Go slow, good man; have a little patience. Brush the old garments carefully, sponge out the grease spots with a little ammonia and then carefully fold up the old "duds" and lay them away. When the next season comes, take them out, send them to be pressed, and when they come back you will be surprised. The shining el-bows no longer glisten in the light, the knees are once more in shape, and you have a suit of clothes almost as good as new-better than new in that they have been tried and have been found trust-worthy; not so good as new because, alas, you cannot go on performing this operation indefinitely.

How to Make the Hair Wave. Soft, natural looking waves of hair are made by rolling the hair over large, soft papers or kid curlers, rolling from the top of the curl toward the end. The hair should be wet and left on the rolls over night. If that is not done, pinch the curls with a hot iron. If you wish to have the hair set out around the face, turn the teeth of your side combs to ward the face, not away from it. Catch them through the end of your waves and you can fluff the hair as little or as much as you choose.

How to Clean Carpets Without Taking Them Up.

A clean barrel which will hold 13 gallons is required. Put into the barrel 3 gallons of lukewarm water (soft water is best); then add half a pint of ammonia. Take an iron kettle and put in 3 pints of water and 6 ounces of soap bark, which you will find at a druggist's. Boil 20 minutes, then strain into the barrel. Shave very thin 6 bars of good soap and put in a boiler with a gallon of water and boil until the scap is all dissolved; then add a pound of pulverized borax and boil ten minutes, stirring all the time; then pour it into the boiler and add 8 gallons of soft water; stir well and let it stand until cool, and it is then ready for use. Brussels carpets can be cleaned nicely with this soap; also ingrain car-pets which are soiled, if they have no dust under them. Take 3 pails of wa-ter. With a brush put on a little of this soap and scrub with warm water one breadth not over a yard in length at one time. Then with another brush and the clean water scrub it over to rinse it; then proceed with the rest until you have cleaned the whole. It should be done on a sunny day unless you have heat in the room.

An excellent scheme for cleaning ingrain carpets and art squares is to shake the carpets free from dust, then spread them on the bare floor, make a good suds with this soap, and with a stiff brush scrub the carpet, a breadth at a time. After you have cleaned the piece have a pail of clean water and scrub it well to get the suds out. This takes out grease and dirt. It is equally good for cleaning children's and men's clothing. Lay the garment on a clean board and scrub with a small brush, which you can purchase for a dime; then rinse.

How to Clean White Chamois Gloves.

Make a lather with castile soap and warm water in which you have put a spoonful of ammonia to each quart.
When the water is tepid, put the gloves in it, let them soak for a quarter of an hour, then press them in your hands, but do not wring them. Rinse in fresh cold water with a little ammonia added. Press the gloves in a towel. Dry in the open air, after previously blowing to puff them out.

How to Make a Match Holder.

A very thin piece of board 8 inches long by 6 deep. Cover with tan colored linen or chamois, and across the bottom a 2 inch band of sandpaper is pasted. A spray of yellow roses can be painted, having it run down to the sandpaper and also within the tiny tumblers, one for matches and one for burned ends, which are tied on with yellow ribbon.

To insure the strength of the ribbon in holding glasses in place, they are passed through slits in the linen before it is pasted on the board. Tiny yellow flowers are painted on tumblers. brass ring, covered with silk crochet, is secured at the top by a loop of the linen, which is held by glue. Cover the back with a thin white cardboard, which will give it a nice finish.

How to Make English Crampets.

For English crumpets take a quart of warm milk, a teaspoonful of salt, a balf cupful of yeast and flour enough for a not very thick batter. When light, add half a cup of melted butter and let stand 20 minutes. Bake in muffin rings or cups.

How to Remove a Particle From the Eye Take a horsehair and double it to

QUEENS OF HAWAII.

PLAYED PROMINENT PARTS IN THE ISLAND KINGDOM.

How Queen Kanhumanu Established "Woman's Rights"-Royal Processions. In One of Which a Downger Wore Seventy-two Yards of Cashmere.

When the missionaries arrived at Hawaii, March 30, 1820, the condition of woman was that of a slave. She could not eat cocoanuts, bananas, oranges or fish, and one of the curious tabus, or interdictions, forbade her eating any kind of food with men.

Queen Kaahumanu sent for the new king, Liholiho, who was engaged in a drunken orgie out on the ocean in a canoe, and urged him to throw down the idols in the heaiaus, or temples, and to clinch the matter by eating in public with a group of women who were feastthemselves at a little distance from the royal abode. Staggering over to them, Liholiho, who was a very different character from his famous father, sat down and publicly ate some of their food. The cry went up, "The tabu is broken.' The torch was applied to the idols, and woman's emancipation began. Queen Kaahumanu was a huge, heavy mortal, and like all the chiefs she was proud and cruel. At first she treated the mission-aries with disdain, offering only the tip of her little finger in salutation, but she became a zealous convert and remained to the time of her death, in 1832, at the age of 58, a firm and conscientious Christian, beloved by those who intimately knew her and universally respected for her abilities. She had ruled as consort of the great conqueror, as joint sovereign with his son, Liholiho, and as regent dur-ing the minority of Kauikeouli.

Kamamalu, the queen of pleasure loving Liholiho, was fond of display. On a state occasion in 1823 she was carried in procession, seated in a whaleboat on a frame of wickerwork borne on the shoulders of 70 men.

The boat and platform, 30 feet long by 12 feet wide, were covered with costly broadcloth relieved by beautiful colored tapas (native bark cloth). The queen's dress was a scarlet silk mantle and a feather coronet. An immense Chinese umbrella, richly gilded and decorated with tassels and fringes of the same gaudy color, supported by a chief wearing a helmet, screened her from the sun. Chiefs held aloft kahilis, or royal staffs, 30 feet high, the handles surrounded by alternate ivory and tortoise shell rings, beautifully wrought and highly polished, the upper part being arranged so as to form a column or plume of scarlet feathers of 1+ feet in diameter and from 12 to 14 feet long. A more magnificent insignia of rank, conveying at once the ideas of grandeur, state and beauty, as they towered and gracefully nodded above the multitude, was never devised by barbarians.

Another royal lady, Kinau, who after-ward shared authority with Kamehame ha III (Kanikeouli), her title being Kas humanu II, appeared in a scarlet pau, long piece of silk wound round the body and limbs, with two long streamers. The pau is a very graceful costume, especially when worn by a wahiue (native woman) on horseback, with the gayly colored streamers affoat in the wind. The two dowager queens appeared in this procession. One of them wore 72 yards of cashmere of double width, one-half being orange and the other half scarlet This was wrapped about her figure till her arms were supported by the mass in a horizontal position, while the remainder, forming an extensive train, was supported by a retinue selected for that pur-

The richness and variety of the dresses and colors, and the exhibition of the wealth and power of the chiefs, their hereditary symbols of rank, the stately kahilis, splendid cloaks and helmets, and necklaces of feathers, intermingled with the brilliant hues and deep green of the flowers and wreaths from their native forests, rendered the spectacle at once unique and attractive. Groups of singers and dancers, to the number of many hundred, ever and anon met the proces sion, enthusiastically shouting their adulation in the willing ears of the chiefs.

Queen Kamamalu and Liholiho made a voyage to London in 1823. Before the ship weighed anchor at Honolulu the queen chanted a farewell:

"O heaven! O earth! O mountains! O sea! O my counselors and my sub-jects, farewell!" The royal travelers created a sensation in London. Queen Kamamalu ex-hibited herself in loose trousers and a long bed gown of colored velveteen, but Parisian modistes soon clothed the ladies in all the gear of fashion. Corsets for the first time encircled their ample waists, and the London ladies, in their rage for the new lions, sought patterns of the turban that graced the brow of the

But, alas, the royal pair caught the measles and died in London, poor children of nature that they were, far from the palm groves and bosky bowers of their native isles! The bodies, in lead coffins framed in wood and covered with crimson velvet, were sent to Honolulu in the frigate Blonde in charge of Lord Byron, a cousin of the poet.-Godey's Magazine.

Encourage Your Children to Come to You With Tales.

If you wish to cultivate a gossiping, meddling, censorious spirit in your children, be sure when they come home from church, a visit or any other place where you do not accompany them to ply them with questions concerning what everybody wore, how everybody looked and what everybody said and did, and, if you find anything in this to censure, always do it in their hearing. You may rest assured, if you pursue a course of this kind, they will return to you laden with intelligence, and rather than that it should be uninteresting they will by degrees learn to embellish in such a manner as shall not fail to call forth remarks and expressions of wonder from you. You will by this course render the spirit of curiosity, which is so early visible in children, and which, if rightly directed, may be the instrument of enriching and enlarging their minds, a vehicle of mischief, which will serve only to make them narrow and

How to Loosen Glass Stoppers.

Sometimes a ground glass stopper gets fixed so tight in the neck of the bottle that it cannot be loosened without dan-ger of breaking. In that case dip a rag hot water and wrap it around the neck. Try the stopper soon, so as to seize the instant when the heat has expanded the bottle neck and has not yet affected the stopper. A drop or two of camphine around the stopper so that it will scak in between it and the neck will often serve. The surfaces of polished glass, stopper and neck will often adhere with wonderful tenacity.

How to Bathe.

Every bathroom should contain a set of shelves, on which should be kept soap, tooth powder, a can of almond meal, a jar of cold cream, a bottle of ammonia, a bottle of alcohol, a bottle of lavender or violet water and a bottle of witch hazel. If medicine is kept in the bathroom, it should not be mixed indiscriminately with the toilet preparations, but should have a section to itself.

The brushes which every woman needs for her bath are a fleshbrush for occasional use, a rubber complexion brush and a nailbrush. Some skins are kept smooth by friction; others are roughen-ed. It will therefore be the part of wisdom not to indulge in continual scrubbing until one discovers which sort of skin one has.

Cold water is not cleansing. It is bracing, it is bracing, it is bracing, and it helps to make the skin firm, but it is not cleansing. The shook of cold water application closes the pores at once, and they retain all the impurities which they should east out. So that any one who wishes to be clean must wash in warm water every day and use a cold water sponge only as a skin tonic.

When one is fatigued, a sponge bath with warm water and alcohol will restore one's strength and vigor. When one is not well, a thorough rubbing down with oil is an excellent medicine.

How to Make Mock Terrapta Soup. For mock terrapin, mix some salt and pepper with a little flour and roll in the mixture slices of calf's liver. Fry them brown in boiling lard, turning them frequently. When they become cold, chop them fine and add a hard boiled egg, also chopped. Season with salt, cayenne pepper, some prepared mustard and a little ground cloves. Cream a tablespoonful of butter with one of flour and add with a teacupful of boiling water. Let the dish simmer over the fire ten minutes, and just before serving add a wine glass of sherry and a little lemon juice.

How a Woman Should Exercise

A woman who has paid great attention to this important subject says water and air are the best tonics and beanti-For bathing purposes she recommends long mittens made from Turkish toweling. At night the mittens should be put in a washbowl of water in which a little fine salt has been dissolved. On mittens, put them on and rub the whole body briskly. Dry on a towel, not too coarse, and dress quickly. Then go out of doors, if only for five minutes. Walking is the best exercise. If you cannot walk half a mile at first, walk a quarter : keep on walking the distance until you can walk three or four miles without fatigne. Fresh air will put a good color in the face, and when the health is good and the blood circulates freely the nerves will be all right.

How to Make a Puree of Apricota Take 6 halves of apricots or peaches; simply press them through a colander; put them in a saucepan with a half cup of boiling water, 2 tablespoonfuls of sugar, and stir constantly until it comes to boiling point. How to Remove Tight Rings From Swol

Jewelers employ this method: Begin at the end and wrap the finger tightly with a flat rubber band, cord or thread. Hold the finger up a few minutes; then remove the wrap quickly and wrap it again; third, or at most fourth, opera-tion will generally reduce the finger so that the ring will slip off easily. Jewelers, however, like physicians, often find that "much depends on the idiosyncrasy of the patient."

A happy man is a healthy man, and a healthy man, and a healthy man is generally happy. You never saw a happy man in your life who had indigestion. If a man gets up in the morning with a foult taste and fouler breath; if he feels listless and sluggish; if he is dizzy and blind the minute he steps od; if he feels utterly incapable of work, it is a pretty sure sign that his digestion is out of order—that his principal trouble is constipation. If he lets this condition run on, there is no telling where it will stop. Nine-tenths of all human sickness comes from constipation. The first thing that every doctor asks when he is called to see a patient is whether the bowels are in good order. It is nonsense to call a doctor for such a simple thing. It is nonsense to let such a simple thing grow into such a serious thing, as it always does if neglected. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They not only afford immediate and pleasant relief from all the distressing symptoms, but they cure permanently and positively. There are 10,000 medicines that can be taken, to give temporary relief. The "Pleasant Pellets" are the only things that really cure.

There are plenty of druggists who will try to sell you something else. You know just as well as we do that an honest druggist wouldn't do such a thing—that an honest druggist would give you what you ask for. You know that when a druggist insists on giving you something else, there must be a reason for it. We know what that reason is—he makes a bigger profit on the other thing. Any druggist in America will supply the "Pellets" if you insist on it.
